TERMS AND CONDITIONS

Definitions

'Academic programme' (academic) shall mean certificated courses conducted by Regenesys on its premises or at a client's premises.

'Management development course' shall mean management programmes conducted over a period of 1-5 days.

'Short course' ('short') shall mean management development courses conducted by Regenesys. These courses may vary in length and are counted in days.

'In-house' shall mean a standard Regenesys course, either short or academic, that is conducted as a package for a corporate or organisational client.

'Provisional registration' or 'provisionally registered' shall mean the provisional booking of an individual onto their chosen course. Provisional registration shows intention to commit and pay fees as set out below.

'Registered' shall mean that the individual has provided supporting documentation, where necessary, and has paid the registration fee for the course in advance or provided documentation such as a government order proving commitment to pay.

A. Academic Regulations

All academic and accredited programmes are subject to academic rules, regulations and applicable domestic legislation as published and revised from time to time. Regenesys is obligated to make personal academic information available to regulatory and administrative bodies for academic and statistical purposes.

B. Application Fee*

A fee of R750 is required in order for an application to be processed, and annually for subsequent registrations. Regenesys reserves the right to amend this fee from time to time.

C. Course Applications

All applications submitted by an individual, whether for a short or academic course, require a fully committed and signed application form and acknowledgement of terms and conditions. All supporting documentation as laid out in the application form should be provided. An application does not constitute full registration on a course. An application is a precursor to provisional registration. An application will be registered once full payment and supporting documentation (where necessary) have been received or the payment terms agreement has been signed with Regenesys.

D. Minimum Numbers

Contact classes will run subject to a minimum of 10 students being enrolled and registered for attendance of the module over the semester.

Regenesys cannot guarantee places on a particular scheduled course, and reserves the right to reallocate learners and courses if the need arises.

E. Invoicing and Payment: Management Development Courses

Payment is required in full prior to commencement of the course. Payment of the applicant's course fee may only be made on the day of commencement of the course, if a written form of prior guarantee is provided by the applicant's sponsor. This guarantee may be in the form of an order number/form or letter from the sponsor stating that the course fee payments will be settled by them.

F. Annual Registration Fee*

For every qualification enrolled for, the student will be required to register each calendar year, in either January or July, as relevant for the modules to be taken during that year. This facilitates better planning for tuition demands and services required. An annual registration fee of R500 will be charged.

G. Revised Fees to Applicable Year's Rate

Tuition will be charged at fees applicable to the current-year rate. A top-up fee will be levied per module, to cover the shortfall between originally paid fees and the applicable rate when student actually does the module. This relates to delayed, deferred and repeat modules. If student paid for the full qualification upfront, the top-up fee will only be applicable on studies extending beyond the required minimum qualification period of the course.

H. Tuition Extension Levy*

If a student's studies extend beyond the minimum completion time, as per the academic regulations, the student will be required to pay an extension levy of R3000 per annum, or part thereof – payable in January or July of each year as applicable.

I. Tuition Commencement

Once an application for any Regenesys programme has been processed and a tax invoice raised, the individual will be deemed to be an enrolled student and will be due to attend and to pay the course fees and any other associated costs (subject to the National Credit Act requirements).

Full receipt of the invoice amount, a government order, or 50% upfront payment and a firm written commitment to pay the balance within an agreed time frame prior to commencement will secure a confirmed and registered place on the course. A Regenesys credit application and income and expenditure statement is required for terms repayment options.

J. Cancellation and Postponement

Academic Programmes:

Should the student inform Regenesys in writing, within 7 days of Registration, that they want to cancel their studies then the following will apply:

- The fees paid by the student in relation to the cancelled studies will be refunded, subject to a cancellation fee of R750.

Should a student want to cancel or postpone their studies for any reason, after the 7 days notice period above, the following will apply:

- Notice of intention to cancel/postpone needs to be communicated in writing to the Personal Programme Advisor (PPA). The full year's fees will still be due and payable, irrespective of payment method.
- If no written cancellation is received, the student will also be liable for the following year's fees.
- Non-attendance in class, nonsubmission or failure to submit or participate in an assessment does not constitute a cancellation, and the year's fees are still payable and due.
- Written acceptance of the cancellation will be submitted to the student by the Personal Programme Advisor.
- Regenesys will not be held liable for failure to receive faxed cancellation notices.

Individual Module:

If you have enrolled for an individual module you will be liable for the full module fee.

Short Courses:

If cancellation of a management development course or short course occurs with less than 5 days' notice, the full course amount will be due, otherwise the cancellation administration fee of R1,000 will be payable. If no advance payment or deposit has been made, then the tax invoice issued will be credited and a new tax invoice issued with a full administration fee of R1,000 per person.

Regenesys reserves the right to postpone or cancel a scheduled course due to insufficient learner numbers or any reason deemed fair by Regenesys. Registered applicants will be provided with an alternative course date or offered a refund.

 - iii. Should a monthly debit order be returned by the bank on a second occasion, in addition to reimbursing Regenesys within 5 (five) days, the student's monthly payment arrangements will immediately be forfeited and the student will then have to pay in advance for each module attended.
 - iv. A returned debit order administration fee will be charged.
 - v. An option for an extended monthly payment period is available, subject to approval.
- c. If the student elects to pay for each module separately, payments for these modules have to be made at least 5 (five) days prior to commencement of the module, failing which, the student will not be allowed to attend class.

- e. In the case of up-front payments, course fees need to be paid prior to commencement and attendance of the course.
- f. Should the student elect to take a study loan through a recognised financial institution, Regenesys will facilitate the necessary forms and contact details for a select number of these institutions. However, payment for the respective course needs to be received by Regenesys prior to commencement of the course.
- g. If the student is studying through the e-learning portal, access to the portal shall be blocked should a student's fees not be paid as envisaged under points a. ii-vi above.

*Applicable to academic courses and qualification programmes.

- i. The signatory/ies will remain liable for all expenses incurred by Regenesys as a result of any breach of his/her/their part of this contract and acknowledge/s that this may include legal tracing and collection costs.

Refund of any deposits and/or advance payments are subject to Regenesys' cancellation terms as set out above. Regenesys will only refund monies to the original source/issuer and reserves the right to refund monies in the same method in which they were received.

Regenesys reserves the right to postpone or cancel a scheduled course. Registered applicants will be provided with an alternative course date or offered a refund of course fees.

M. Academic Support and Other Charges*
